SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR.

THE SYMPTOMS of Liver Complaint are uneasiness and pain in the side. Sometimes the pain is in the shoulder, and is mistaken for rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowls in general costive, sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable loss of memory, accompanied with painful sensations of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility and low spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the liver with Highly Important Discovery.

DR. SIMMS, of Wilmington, Del. has discovered a plant, the essential tincture of which in combination with other rare ingredients, known only to the discoverer, will positively cause the hair to grow thick and beautiful where it has fallen off and become thin. In a great many cases where fever has caused the loss of the hair, it has restored it again wonderfully fast. In several cases of baldness it has restored the hair to all its former fullness. As the Doctor has prepared a preparation for years, under the name of Botanic Hair Tonic, he will continue the preparation under the same name, with an addition of this discovery. It is not a hair colorer as is generally offered for sale, but by its action on the scalp and roots of the hair, the natural color seems to come with the renewed growth. It cures disease of the head, it is elegantly perfumed, and is a splendid hair dressing. A hair trial will convince any one of its great qualities. Sold Wholesale and Retail at

7-30 GOLD LOAN

OF THE

Northern Pacific Railroad Company.

Rapid Progress of the Work.

THE building of the Northern Pacific Railroad, (begun July last,) is being pushed forward with great energy from both extremities of the line. Seven thousand men are employed in Minnesota and on the Pacific coast. The grade is nearly completed 266 miles westward from Lake Superior; trains are running 130 miles of finished road, and track-laying is progressing towards the eastern border of Dakota. Including its purchase of the St. Paul & Pacific Road, the Northern Pacific Company now has 413 miles of completed road, and by September next this will be increased to at least 500.

A GOOD INVESTMENT. Jay Cooke & Co. are now selling, and unhesitatingly recommend, as a profitable and perfectly safe investment, the First Mortgage Land Grant Gold Bonds of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company. They have 30 years to run, bear Seven and Three-Tenths per cent. gold interest (more than 8 per cent. currency,) and are secured by first and only mortgage, on the entire road and its equipments, and also, as fast as the road is completed, on 23,000 ACRES OF LAND to every mile of track, or 500 acres for each $1,000 Bond. They are exempt from U. S. Tax; principal and interest are payable in gold; denominations; coupons, $100 to $1,000; registered, $100 to $10,000.

LANDS FOR BONDS. Northern Pacific 7-30's are at at all times receivable at 10 per cent. above par, in exchange for the Company's lands, at their lowest cash prices. This renders them practically interest bearing land warrants.

SINKING FUND. The proceeds of all sales of lands are required to be devoted to the purchase and cancellation of the First Mortgage Bonds of the Company. The land grant of the road exceeds fifty million acres. This immense sinking fund will undoubtedly cancel the principal of the Company's bonded debt before it falls due. With their ample security and high rate of interest, there is no investment, accessible to the people, which is more profitable or safe.

EXCHANGING U. S. FIVE-TWENTIES. The success of the new government 5 per cent. loan will compel the early surrender of United States 6 per cents. Many holders of Five-Twenties are now exchanging them for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties, thus realizing a handsome profit, and greatly increasing their yearly income.

OTHER SECURITIES.—All marketable stocks and bonds will be received at their highest current price in exchange for Northern Pacific Seven-Thirties. Express charges on money or bonds received and on Seven-Thirties sent in return, will be paid by the financial agents. Full information, maps, pamphlets, etc. can be obtained on application at any agency, or from the undersigned.

THE BITTER ROOT AGUE PILL.

THE undersigned having obtained the most signal and prompt relief from the use of these Pills, concluded to procure a large amount of them to supply the neighborhood. To be certain that the investment would be safe, application was made to one of the most prominent and successful physicians of the country for his opinion of this medicine. He replied:

"It is perfectly harmless. Contains no Arsenic, no Mercury nor Quinine, and yet is so energetic and powerful, that I firmly believe it will cure all cases of Fever and Ague, if properly used. In 752 cases there was not one failure, where the medicine was used as directed. Therefore, by placing it within the reach of every one, you will confer an untold blessing upon the community."

Encouraged by this frank and unreserved testimony, I have prepared myself to establish Local Agents wherever the Pills are needed.

WITHOUT THE CHILDREN.

O, the weary, solemn silence,
Of a house without the children,
O, the strange, oppressive stillness
Where the children come no more!
Ah! the longing of the sleepless
For the soft arms of the children,
Ah! the longing for the faces,
Faces gone forevermore!
Peeping through the opening door.

Strange it is to wake at midnight,
And not hear the children breathing,
Nothing but the old clock ticking,
Ticking, ticking by the door.
Strange to see the little dresses
Hanging up there all the morning,
And the gaiters—ah! their patter,
We will hear it nevermore
On our mirth-forsaken floor.

What is home without the children?
'Tis the earth without its verdure,
And the sky without its sunshine:
Life is withered to the core!
So we ll follow the good shepherd
To the greener pastures vernal,
Where the lambs have "gone before"
With the Shepherd evermore!

O, the weary, solemn silence
Of a house without the children,
Oh, the strange, oppressive stillness
Where the children come no more!
Ah! the longing of the sleepless
For the soft arm of the children,
Ah! the longing of the faces
Peeping through the opening door—
Faces gone forevermore!

A Thrilling Narrative.

THE CHEMIST,S STORY.

I am a Chemist Many, doubtless, would find it difficult to define what the duties of a chemist are, if asked. To such I say, a chemist is a collector of facts. It is the business of his life to aid in unmasking, for the world's benefit, the good and evil hovering even in the air we breathe, burrowing in the earth we tread, mingling with the food we eat, and swimming in what we drink.

Then, again, the law waits on the chemist. A human being has passed suddenly away. Somebody things there has been foul play. The chemist examines the body of the supposed victim. The law listens, hat in hand, to science. The suspected party trembles in anticipation. The oracular lips of the chemist move; he names one out of the fearful list of poisons. It is either strychnia, prussic acid, or that deadly oil of bitter almonds. The law then puts on it's hat, takes the decision into Court, and hangs the prisoner.

In short, the chemist must know the whys and wherefores of everything in the phenomena of life as far as feeble man can know. The composition of the ocean he must be familiar with; he must be able to name the gases of the air, and capable of resolving vapors. I am the occupant of this responsible and important position in the Medical College of P—

It was about eleven o'clock on a stormy evening that I bade good night to my student, Tom Richards, at the door of my labratory, at the south end of the College building.

"Good night, Professor," said Tom; "we are going to have a fall of hydrogen, oxygen, and a trace of saline."

Hydrogen and oxygen—in our nomenclature, H. O.—is water.

"I hope," I said in answer to Tom's playful words, "that it will not rain before I get home."

"Oh, no, it won't for an hour yet," said Tom.

"Then," I said with a sigh, noticing that the mercury in the barometer was rapidly falling, a sign of a violent storm, "I shall certainly get wet."

Tom was very anxious to know what would keep me up till after twelve o'clock; so I sold him I was about to commence analyzing the stomach of Mrs. Johnson, whose husband now lay in P— jail, just across the road from the College, on suspicion that he was her murderer. Tom said I had worked hard enough to-day, and deserved the night to myself. He spoke the truth. Still, I had delayed examining the woman's stomach so long and the trial was so near at hand, that I could not in consequence put off the examination further, although I had heard several classes recite at the different public schools in the morning, had delivered a lecture in the college proper that afternoon, and one in the labratory that evening, besides attending to my several duties as police surgeon that day.

As Tom was passing out of the College yard, through the gate, his head turned, and bidding me good night, he brushed against a man standing with his back toward the College, and his face to the prison. The street-lamp showed me that the man was clad in the police uniform.

Re-entering my labratory I took down a glass jar from a shelf, and sat down before my sink to examine it. The jar, which contained Mrs. Johnson's stomach, was covered by a cloth, duly tied with strings, and properly sealed with my official seal in red wax. Breaking through the cloth and seal, I lifted the stomach out with a dissecting hook and laid it on a white platter before me; then became busily engaged in applying those tests to its contents by which we detect the presence of injurious substances.

An hour passed since the departure of young Richards. I had carefully emptied the contents of the stomach into a number of basins and bowls. I had labored hard to discover traces of poison in all this, but had been unsuccessful. Joe Scheaton, the suspected man, had been a student of mine a few years before. I thought him a good hearted, intelligent fellow, and really began to hope that he might prove innocent, when among the macerated food I came upon a small infinitesimal white grain. By careful manipulation and the use of my magnifying glass, I managed to get this upon a piece of smoked glass and examined it.

I was then certain that I had discovered arsenic; but to make assurance doubly sure, I determined to apply a well-known test for that poison. Accordingly I placed in the woman's stomach the usual acids and then turned on the blow pipe flame, and presently upon a white and beautiful porcelain ground there appeared that brilliant metallic mark, worthy of Cain's brow, which is the sign and signet of the Poison Fiend.

"Yes," I exclaimed, as I saw that blazen, "Joe Johnson is the murderer of his wife. With the evidence of that mark to back me, no power can save him from the rope!"

"Do you really think so?" said a calm, squeaking voice behind me.

I turned quickly and discovered a tall, thin policeman, having red, weak and watery eyes, standing at my office door and staring in. His body looked as if it had been rolled out long between hands, like a molasses candy stick. His nose was merely an elongated, fleshy plug, and his forehead was decorated with two red streaks instead of eyebrows. He had no expression at all in his face, and his policeman's hat was so large that it threatened to settle down on his shoulders.

His uniform reassured me, and I addressed him with some impatience.

"My friend, I suppose I am wanted to attend an inquest—or what is your purpose?"

"No, doctor, the man ain't dead yet."

"Anything in the surgical line?" I was police surgeon, as well as coroner.

"No."

"Well, then, what am I sent for at this time of night?"

"Don't bother, Professor, the man ain't dead yet; but they say he will be before morning."

"Are doctors attending him?"

"Oh, he's in good hands, Professor"

"What's the matter with him?"

"Well," said the official, some folks say he's got so much knowledge into him that he can't live under it."

"Cerebral disorder, eh?"

"What?" asked the man.

"Brain disorder, I mean; something wrong here."

"Aye; and I thought I'd drop in and tell you if you were going to the station to-morrow, to take a look and see if it's post mortem or nat. Besides, I wanted to see where I could find you in case of need."

I bowed, and attributed his visit to a feeling of curiosity. He sat on the sink with one rubber boot thrown over the other, and wiped his nose with a dirty handkerchief several times, while his eyes wandered about like Christopher Columbus after discoveries. Finally he spoke like one who thought himself called upon to say something.

"Professor, there has been an accident this afternoon; terrible, too."

"Ah! said I.

"Awful!" said he.

"What was it?"

"Nitro-glycerine explosion up in the iron mills—a hundred fellow mortals busted!"

"Sad."

"Affecting, very." Here he rubbed his mouth with the back of his hand.—"Professor, what is that nitro-glycerine?"

"It is a very dangerous article," I answered, happy to display my knowledge. "It is nearly twice the destructiveness of gunpowder—but, unlike it, does not explode on the application of heat. A red-hot coal dropped into it will not explode it. It will freeze; it is yellow and greasy. Its symbols in our nomenclature are C6, N3, O6."

"You don't mean to say so!" said the officer, interrupting me in disagreeable tenes in the very middle of a choice extract from one of my lectures. "Why, but you hain't told me how it goes off. If fire won't bust it, what in (hem) will?"

I told him that if it were pressed or anything fell on it, it would explode.

"Place it under the crusher of a cider mill, strike it with a hammer, let a weight fall on it from a height—"

"Yes," said my man, "and that rouses its volcano, does it? How does it come, Professor?"

"In little cans—why, like these," said I, discovering that there was a little can of it on the marble sink, which I had carelessly neglected to replace in the cellar. I then took a little of the glycerine and spread it on a thin piece of paper, and laying the paper on an anvil, struck it with a hammer. A slight explosion and a flame burst from the paper.

"Now, really," said the policeman, starting back. "I suppose, Professor, that that there can would make a mighty noise if allowed to explode in here all at once?"

"It would blow the entire building to atoms," said I, resuming the analysis of Mrs. Johnson's stomach.

"No?" I heard the policeman remark, in deliberate Yankee tones: "You don't say so?"

The next moment I lay on my back, a gag in my mouth, terribly frightened and sick at heart. Over me stood the policeman, and the first thing that functionary did was—looking me straight in the face—to take off his nose! He then rid himself of his red eyebrows, hair, cap, and became a determined-looking fellow, with the eyes of a fiend and the nose of a Roman.

"So you think," said the metamorphosed in the tones of a gentleman, "that nothing can save Joe Johnson from the rope? Poor fellow! it does look like it. But, Professor, Joe Johnson is fortunate enough to have in me a devoted friend, as well as a brother. I have undertaken to save him, and he shall be saved! In order to accomplish this end, it will be necessary to remove from the face of the earth not only the stomach of his miserable wife yonder, but also my dear professor—I'm sorry to be obliged to say it, for I believe you were my brother's teacher and friend—yourself as well." I saw that he was in deadly earnest.

"Your death must apparently result from accident—at least so it must seem to the authorities. My brother is in jail, and they will not suspect me."

What terrible deed was his brain hatching? Was he going to murder me? The hoarded knowledge of a score of years I would have given for power to utter but one single cry.

He took me in his arms and placed me in a chair, and bound me to it, and then from a side pocket he produced another rope.

Was it myself who was to hang instead of Joe Johnson?

No; yes. He placed the line pully-like over an arm of the hanging chandelier. This was too slight a support even for one of my slender frame. It was not to be hanging then.

To one end of the rope he attached a weight, and raised it, by pulling the other six or eight feet from the floor. The loose end he attached to the sink. Was he mad? Did he mean to draw me under this weight, and send me out of this world in a novel way by letting it fall, and dashing my brains out?

To the sink end he attached a long yellow string.

Under the weight on the floor he placed the can of nitro-glycerine. I recognized the yellow string; it was a fuse, and would burn sixty minutes. It would burn across the marble slab—there was no hope of igniting any substance that would warn my friends.

"Do you begin to see through it?" said Joe Johnson's brother.

I believe I cursed him with my eyes, I could only breathe through my nostrils, the great veins were swelling and growing hot in my forehead.

Drawing a match from his pocket, he lighted and applied it to the fuse, that little tyrant that gave a man an hour to live, and killed him at the end of it—that little irresponsible terror that, less merciful than Providence, told a man the second he was to die, if fright and horror spared him to itself.

Slowly the flame crept, snake-like, around the twine.

"In an hour," said the prisoner's brother, "you will be in heaven or hell. I will watch with you for half an hour, and then after half you will spend alone."

He sat down some minutes in a chair, watching the flame. Then he arose and took the piece of porcelain with the murderer's mark thereon from the table, and shook his head gloomily.

"I am chemist enough to know it is arsenic," he said. "Yes, those bright metallic eyes, a betrayer of the guilty! Science, thou wouldst kill my brother! Thou shalt save him. Let us see in whose hands thou art most powerful. Here is a man who, by thy aid, bids the poison-sprite uprise and write in brilliant characters a foul confession on this piece of porcelain. But behold, O science! It is no sooner written than, by thy aid, the whole confession and thy chosen servant are annihilated. Let the good Professor use his chemicals, the bad brother only asks—a little can of nitro-glycerine!"

I heard this speech, indeed, but, great heavens! it was my eyes and not my ears that were busiest then. For, from beneath the table, covered by the crimson cloth of which I have before spoken, and which I faced, appeared the head of a child. The hair was rumpled and the blue eyes were just opening from sleep. The intelligent forehead was wrinkled strangely. It was my boy, Billy. I was afraid he would cry "papa!" If he did, the implacable man would add the murder of the child to the murder of the father.

But my boy did none of this. He had I suppose, crept under the table unknown to me, and fallen asleep there. I tried to tell the little fellow to hide again, and wait for the final half hour when my tormentor would be gone. Whether he understood me or not, aided by what he had heard, I did not know; but he quickly withdrew his curly head, first kissing his hand to me and then shaking his fist at the schemer watching so deliberately his dumb fire agents.

The half hour wore slowly away. O heavens! what agony did I suffer! Not for myself, but for my child. A slight noise might discover his presence; the match might run its tether sooner than was expected. He might be murdered or blown to atoms.

The fuse burned on—on. The half hour is up! The brother of the murderer rises to go! Joy!!

"Commit your soul to God's keeping," he said. "You who hold the evidence of my brother's guilt—nothing can save you now." With that he turned to take his hat from off the table cover with the crimson cloth, beneath which lay hid my priceless boy. Something diverted his attention. He laid on the table and leaned forward. I thought he had discovered my boy. No, he was lifting something in either hand—the wires of the electric battery. In another instant my boy had leaped from under the table, and was turning the crank fast and furiously.

The murderer's brother was in the power of my boy. He could not drop the wires; he was helpless and motionless. How my boy cried for help. The college rung again. The prisoner's brother added his voice to my boy's in his agony—He begged, he beseeched—all his nerves were racked—great waves of galvanism leaped, and surged, and jarred over every sensative nerve and fibre. Still my boy was inflexible—shouted and turned faster.

Unperceived upon the marble, in the track of the burning fuse, was a pool of inflamable oil. In an instant a great length burned away. It would last just five minutes and no more.

"Father," shouted my boy, "if no assistance comes, this villian must die with us. I dare not let him free. Help! help!" Alas! I could not answer him.

But some one else did, thank God! The fuse is burnt up! The rope is on fire; the weight trembles; another minute it will fall upon the nitro-glycerine. The door opens. Tom Richards, on a midnight visit to the sick, has heard the cry. He comprehends all, seizes the can in his hands—the weight decends indeed, but not on the death-dealing oil. No, down it goes through the office-floor, down, down, like an evil spirit, to give back a dull, metallic echo from the stones of the cellar beneath. We are saved!

Joe Johnson, the prisoner, was hanged, but his brother remains unpunished by the law, for he stabbed himself with a knife, and thus escaped the hangman's rope.

TRUE ORIGIN OF MASONRY.—According to the best authorities the order had its origin among operative masons in the early part of the middle ages. It sprung from the difficulty of finding enough men of skill in any one country of Europe to build the cathedrals and other ecclesiastical structures of that period. To obviate this difficulty, skillful men from various countries formed a fraternity of architects and builders or masons, and they traveled from country to country, as their services were required. They encamped in tents or huts by themselves, and framed regulations for their own government, according to the peculiar circumstances of their occupation, and the itinerant lives they were called to lead. They styled themselves "free" because they were at liberty to work whenever they chose. Many of the public buildings of England, in the Gothic style, were erected by men in companies of this sect; and it is quite reasonable to suppose, as some distinguished historians have done, that the institution of speculative Freemasonry was derived from this professional brotherhood of traveling architects and artisans. They doubtless had signs and tokens and emblems by which they might know one another, and which tended to promote mutual assistance and good fellowship.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—It is a woman's right to stay at home. For what other reason did her husband marry her?

It is woman's right to have her home in order when her husband returns from business.

It is woman's rights to be kind and forbearing whenever her husband is annoyed.

It is a woman's right to examine her husband's linen, and see that it wants neither mending nor buttons.

It is woman's rights to be content when her husband declares he is unable to take her to the sea-side.

It is a woman's right to be satisfied with her old dresses until her husband can buy her new ones.

It is a woman's right to nurse her children instead of leaving it to the maid.

It is a woman's right to get her daughter's married—happily, or not at all.

It is woman's right to feel pleased, though her husband brings a friend unexpectedly to dinner.

And, finally, it is woman's right to remain a woman's without endeavoring to be a man.

A Young boy being chaffed in school by some pupils older than himself, became angry, and picking up the first thing he came to, (which happened to be a testament,) threw it at them. The teacher inquired "what he was doing." "I was casting the word of God among the heathen," said the boy.

A GOOD REASON.—At the late Plymouth Church pic-nic Mr. Beecher was asked why he did not dance. "There is but one reason," he replied,—"I don't know how. The only dancing I ever did was when my father furnished the music, and used me for the fiddle. I took all the steps then."

Never do a good action from the expectation of gratitude. If gratitude follow so much the better, you are so much into pocket; but gratitude or not, always do the good action when the opportunity presents itself.

An old maid, with more bones than flesh, is writing letters through the papers advising young girls not to marry. Poor thing, she don't know how it is herself.

CONCENTRATED FERTILIZERS.

The cause of failure in the use of concentrated fertilizers is often due to the manner in which they were applied. It is difficult for those who have been accustomed to use bulky manures to realize that the full fertilizing potency of a bushel of animal excrement may be held in a large tablespoon, and that a handful of one added to plant structures as decidedly as several shovelsful of the other. A full dose of opium given to patients furnishes quite a dark, bulky powder, or pill; but if we separate the alkaloidal principle, upon which its hypnotic power depends, we have only a little delicate white powder which a breath of wind will blow away. The ½ grain powder will affect the human organism as powerfully as ten times the weight of opium. If we are so forgetful of "potencies" as to administer as much, or even one-quarter as much, of the white concentrated powder as the bulky dark one, we should destroy our patient's life, or at least do great injury to his health. So, if in the use of genuine superphosphate, or guano, or ground bones and ashes, we forget their power, and apply too much, or apply them too directly, we endanger the life of our plants.

An experiment made upon corn furnishes an illustrative case in point. At the time of planting upon a field divided by a narrow strip of sward land, we directed that on one side a tablespoonful of the mixed bone and ashes should be placed in each hill, and well covered with the soil; upon the other, four rows were to be treated similarly, and upon the remainder, the hills should receive a double quantity. It is curious to observe the effects. The first field and four rows are remarkably thrifty. The corn came up well, and has manifested remarkable vigor from the start. On the other hand, the over-dosed corn appeared for a long while as if paralyzed by some wasting disease. It could not bear up under so much of a good thing. More free ammonia was formed at the start than could be appropriated by the tender plants, and many of them perished from over-stimulation and heat produced by the fermentative changes of the active bodies in contact. The corn that survived is at present growing finely, and will no doubt afford a large yield.

Now, if this had happened in the course of our regular agricultural labors, and with any understanding of the nature of the fertilizing substance used, it is probable it would have been condemned as a worthless article. This has been the case with hundreds of experiments, and it is indeed a perfectly natural conclusion to reach. But we must learn to reason, learn to have patience, learn the character of the substance we employ upon our lands. We must be careful how we reach a conclusion: we must examine closely to see if they are based upon correct grounds. There are well established principles in agriculture; let us cling to them, and when we get results that are puzzling or paradoxical, we must study causes, and not judge hastily.—Journal of Chemistry.

HOW TO KEEP CIDER.—Mr. E. Williams, in the Journal of the Farm, gives the following on cider keeping:

I am aware that there are as many recipes for keeping cider as for curing colds or rheumatism. Some of them doubtless are good, but most of them are worthless. Here is one which I have found to answer the purpose admirably, and as your readers will observe, is a very simple one.

I allow the cider after it comes from the press, to stand until the pumice settles. When this point is reached, I put it in a clear vessel, and let it come to a boil, skimming off the scum carefully. It is then put into kegs or demijohns, and tightly corked and sealed. By this process I have excellent sweet cider, not merely for the entire winter, but for years. This method would not of course be available where large quantities are made, but for an ordinary family it answers admirably.

An Irishman took a contract to dig a public well. When he had dug about twenty-five feet down, he came one morning and found it caved in—filled nearly to the top. Pat looked cautiously around and saw that no person was near, then took off his hat and coat, hung them on the windlass, crawled into some bushes and waited events. In a short time the citizens discovered that the well had caved in, and seeing Pat's hat and coat on the windlass they supposed that he was at the bottom of the excavation. Only a few hours of brisk digging cleared the loose earth from the well. Just as the eager citizens had reached the bottom, and wondering where the body was, Pat came out of the bushes, and good naturedly thanked them for relieving him of a sorry job. Some of the tired diggers were disgusted, but the joke was too good to allow anything more than a hearty laugh, which soon followed.

Lorenzo Dow was once preaching in Connecticut to a crowded house, the season being mid-winter and the weather extremely cold. During the sermon the members of the congregation would make frequent visits to the stove to warm [illegible]. The old man stood the interruption until forbearance ceased to be a virtue, and stopping in the middle of a sentence, he said: "Those who have [illegible] stockings may [illegible] to the fire and warm their feet." [illegible] again during the services.

A perfect reign of terror is reported to exist in the counties of South Carolina lately placed under martial law by order of President Grant. Bands of soldiers traverse the country at night, taking persons from their beds and hurrying them to jail without explaining the cause of their arrest. Any negro can have as many white men arrested as he desires, by simply swearing that he saw them with the Ku-Klux. Great numbers are leaving the country, deserted families are suffering, and business of all kinds is suspended.

An order has been issued by a Court at Albany, New York, for the arrest of Wm. M. Tweed. The Judge refused positively to make the proceedings before him public. Should Tweed not be able to give the bail demanded, $2,000,000, he will be committed to jail.

Another fearful explosion has occurred in a coal mine near Newcastle, Eng. Thirty-three men were in the pit at the time, and, at the date of the latest accounts, there was scarcely a hope of saving a single life. All the former scenes of distress among the families of the victims were being renewed.

Administrators' Sale
OF
IN ST. GEORGE'S HUNDRED.

BY virtue of a renewed Order of the Orphans' Court of the State of Delaware, in and for New Castle County, made the 4th day of September, A. D. 1871, will be exposed to sale at public auction,
ON SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28,
At 1 o'clock, P. M. at the Hotel of William T. Chance, in Odessa, Del., the following described lands and tenements, being the Real Estate of the late Wm. M. Vandegrift, dec'd, the same being ordered to be sold for the payment of his debts, to wit: A tract of land situated in Vance's Neck, in St. Georges Hundred, adjoining lands of Wilson E. Vandegrift, Leonard G. Vandegrift and others, containing

200 ACRES OF LAND,

MARSH AND UPLAND, WITH FRAME DWELLING HOUSE and OUT-BUILDINGS THEREON.

Attendance will be given and terms of sale made known by Francis T. Perry and Thomas Cavender, Administrators, or by C. B. Lore, Esq. their Attorney.
Attest: BENJ. R. USTICK,
Clerk of Orphans Court.

The above property is well worth the attention of capitalists, being situated on the road from McDonough to Fort Penn, about two miles from each place, and one mile from Augustine Landing, where lime can be landed, or grain shipped; and where large quantities of peaches are shipped every year to Philadelphia, or other markets, at a very small expense. Good School within half-mile, and in a community whose morals are proverbially good, making it a desirable place of residence. There is on the farm at present about from 3 to 7 years old, all in bearing order, and being near the water often bear when other orchards more inland fail. The natural soil is good, and with very little expense can be made very productive. About 125 acres is marsh and cripple, which can be embanked at a small cost to the owner; it being a part of the Augustine Marsh Company, and we have no doubt the company will put up their bank very soon. Independent of the company, there are ravines making up inland, which could be embanked by the owner at a very trifling cost, and would be valuable acquisitions to the farm. Any further information respecting the above property will be given with pleasure by either of the unersigned.

5,500 Peach Trees,

HOW THEY HAD HIM.

When I was young and tender too,
I had a mind and had to do
Whatever mother bade me;
She used to have a walnut stick
Which kept me on the double-quick,
And that was where she had me.

When older grown, and quite a beau
Among the girls I used to know
A Miss Priscilla Cadmy;
And with the help of smiles and nods
I fell in love at forty rods,
And there is where she had me.

When I was older, say sixteen,
I thought it time to have a queen,
And asked her if she'd wed me;
She said she didn't much object,
Or words something to that effect.
And there was where she had me.

But when, to make the matter straight,
I went up to negotiate
Affairs with Colonel Cadmy,
He said he "didn't care to sell,"
He told me I might go to—well,
And there was where he had me.

I drowned my sorrow in the cup
Until I got my dander up,
(I could do I have no madder;)
When she proposed that we be one
In spite of pa—the thing was done,
And that was where I had her.

OUR TEETH.

The charms, omens, signs, panaceas relating to the teeth constitute quite a formidable item in folk-lore. In some parts of Sussex there is a superstition that if you put on your right stocking, right shoe, and right trowserleg before the left, you will never have toothache. To drink out of a skull taken from a graveyard; to take a tooth from such a skull, and wear it round the neck; to apply the tooth to your own living but aching tooth; to put a double nut into your pocket; to pare your finger-nails and toe-nails, and wrap up the parings in paper—all are charms against the toothache. If you catch a mole in a trap, cut off one of his paws, and wear it as a charm, you will "soon see the effect," provided a right paw be used for a left tooth, and vice versa. When an aching tooth is extracted, mix it with salt and burn it. There is in Norfolk a custom of calling the toothache the "love-pain," for which the sufferer is not entitled to any commiseration; whether he (or she) fully assents to this, may perhaps be doubted. Many other items of tooth-lore have no connection with toothache. For instance; if the teeth are set wide apart, there will be good luck and plenty of travelling for the fortunate possessor. When a tooth is drawn, if you refrain from thrusting your tongue into the cavity, the new tooth to grow in its place will be a lucky one. Lady Wentworth, in a letter written in 1713 to her son Lord Strafford, spoke of the efficacy of wolves' teeth set in gold to assist children in cutting their teeth: "They are very lucky things; for my twoe first one did dye, the other bred his very ill, and none of ye rest did, for I had one for al the rest." Bless the good lady, her grammar and her logic are about on a par!

Why do some people's teeth come out more readily than others? The reasons for this are probably many. About the middle of the last century, Peter Kalm, a Swede, visited America, and wrote sensibly about what he saw. He observed a frequent loss of teeth among the settlers from Europe, especially women. After discussing and dejecting many modes of explanation, he attributed it to hot tea and other hot beverages, and came to a general conclusion that "hot feeders lose their teeth more readily than cold feeders." Mr. Catlin, who some years ago had an interesting exhibition of Indian scenery, dresses, weapons, &c, noticed that North American Indians have better teeth than the whites. He accounts for the difference in this strange way—that the reds keep the mouth shut, whereas the whites keep it open. The teeth, he says, require moisture to keep their surfaces in good working order; when the mouth is open, the mucous membrane has a tendency to dry up, the teeth lose their needed supply of moisture, and thence come discoloration, toothache, tiedoloreaux, decay, looseness, and eventual loss of teeth.

During the days of the resurrectionists or body-snatchers, when graveyards were subjected to pillage for supplying anatomists with subjects for dissection, the teeth from the dead bodies formed a frequent article of sale to dentists. Sometimes graves were opened for the teeth alone, as being small and easily concealed articles. Mr. Cooper, the surgeon relates an instance of a man feigning to look out a burial-place for his wife, and thus obtaining access to the vault of a meeting house, the trap-door of which he unbolted; at night he let himself down in the vault, and pocketed the front teeth of the whole of the buried congregation, by which he cleared fifty pounds. Mention is made of a licensed butler or cantineer during the Peninsular war, who "drew the teeth of those who had fallen in battle, and plundered their persons. With the produce of these adventures he built a hotel at Margate. But his previous occupation being discovered, his house was avoided, and disposed of at a heavy loss." He afterwards became a dealer in dead men's teeth.

Boys will be boys. A youth at Altoona, Pa. had his pocket full of gunpowder, and as he was smoking a cigar stump, he saw his mother coming, so he chuckled the cigar in his pocket. The old lady can't find enough of Johnny for the coroner to earn his regular fee on. She says she never believed in spirits until she saw her boy disappear so sudden from right before her eyes.

Dr. Johnson once silenced a notorious literary bookbiter who was condemning many of her friends for painting their faces, by the remark that "It is a far more heinous thing for a lady to redden her own cheeks than to blacken her neighbor's character."

"Doctor, send for the doctor!"—"Sir, that man is dead." "Then send for the undertaker!"

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

For a Cough and Cold, no better remedy can be had. Take small doses three times a day and put the feet in warm water at night, until the disease is broken up.

For Influenza, when it affects the throat or lungs, take the same course.

For Whooping Cough, give small doses three or four times a day.

For Croup, give large and frequent doses until the disease is overcome.

No family should be without the Cherry Pectoral on hand to protect them, in case of attack, from the above complaints. Its timely use often spares the patient a great amount of suffering and risk, which he would incur by waiting until he could get other aid. Parents, keep it in your houses for the exigencies that arise. Lives dear to you may be saved by it.

So generally are its virtues known, that we need not publish certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that the best qualities it ever possessed are strictly maintained.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

VINEGAR BITTERS

PURELY VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL — CALIFORNIA — D. WALKER'S

VINEGAR BITTERS

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists and Gen. Agts., San Francisco, Cal., and 32 and 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

They are not a vile Fancy Drink, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequaled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, Tape and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. Says a distinguished physiologist, there is scarcely an individual upon the face of the earth whose body is exempt from the presence of worms. It is not upon the healthy elements of the body that worms exist, but upon the diseased humors and slimy deposits that breed these living monsters of disease. No system of Medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

SOLUBLE PACIFIC GUANO AT REDUCED PRICES.

NO fertilizer introduced to the farmers of the Middle and Southern States has given more general and uniform satisfaction than this guano. The facts in it has steadily increased until the consumption now throughout the entire country far exceeds that of any other fertilizer. The large capital involved in its production affords the surest guarantee to its continued excellence. The company has a far greater interest in the permanence of its trade than any number of consumers can have; hence it is the highest interest of the company to put their best fertilizers in the Market, that their usual facilities, aided by the best scientific ability, can produce. This guano is sold at retail by local agents of the company throughout New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania and the Southern States, and at wholesale by
